

“The storms of life should not determine your view of God. God is a good God! Life and life more abundantly come from God but anything that steals, kills or destroys, comes from the devil (John 10:10). While this information holds true, it does not mean there will not be difficulties of numerous shapes and forms throughout life. When painful circumstances persist it is easy to become angry with God especially when one has been trusting God for an improved situation over a long period of time. How is it that we are supposed to deal with such things? How should we view God when difficult times come? Is there a Godly reason for the difficulties of life?
